

Demos Select Party Ticket; None From U. P.

GRAND RAPIDS (P)—Candidates from the Detroit area, central Michigan and the Thumb area will carry the Democratic colors in the fall election campaign.

The party hammered out this slate at its convention Saturday. Secretary of State—James M. Hare.

Attorney General—Thomas M. Kavanagh.

State Treasurer—Sanford Brown. Auditor General—Victor C. Targonski.

Hare, 44, secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair and former Wayne University instructor, is from Detroit.

No U. P. Nominee

Targonski, 40, who ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor in 1948, is an attorney in Wyandotte, a Detroit suburb.

Kavanagh, 45, attorney and former state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, is from Carson City, in central Michigan.

Brown, 45, farmer and member of the State Fair Board, is from Bay Port, near the tip of the Thumb.

This lineup departed from tradition in that no nominee was picked from the Upper Peninsula.

Williams Heads Ticket

It also is lacking in direct CIO connections. Targonski is the only nominee linked at all with the CIO. He at one time was an official of a CIO union for employees of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Hare is a member of the American Federation of Teachers (AFL).

The four nominees will be on a ticket headed by Gov. Williams; Patrick V. McNamara, candidate for U. S. senator, and Philip A. Hart, nominee for lieutenant-governor.

SEE WHAT THEY MISSED—Sgt. Llywellyn Baldwin, of Pittstown, Pa., displays his $1200 reenlistment pay which bandits missed when they held up the Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Bank, and made off with an estimated $124,638. Senate Vote Before Election Likely On Censure Of McCarthy

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Watkins (R-Vt.) said today his special six-member committee will "take every possible shortcut" toward a report on censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) so the Senate can vote on the issue before the November election.

But Senators Knowland (R-Calif.) and George (D-Ga.) agreed that unless findings are ready for Senate action by the first week in October it may be impossible to get senators to interrupt re-election campaigns to return to Washington.

Watkins, who heads the bipartisan committee studying 46 accusations that McCarthy has not conducted himself as a senator should, said in an interview he hopes the group "can have a report ready by Oct. 1."

GOPs Tee Off On Fair Boss

DETROIT (P)—Republicans today went after the scalp of James M. Hare as Michigan State Fair Manager.

John Feikens, Michigan Republican chairman, declared Hare should quit the job because he had accepted the nomination as secretary of state at the Democratic state convention in Grand Rapids.

Feikens said he had called a meeting today of "state campaign assistants to discuss the nomination made by the CIO bosses to the Administrative Board." He added:

"We are particularly interested in the selection of their candidate for secretary of state."

"The Democrats had quite a record of mixing politics with the Michigan State Fair. We feel therefore, that Mr. Hare should immediately resign his position as manager of the Michigan State Fair so that it will not be turned into a political football by the Democrats."

Hare was not available for comment. But his secretary, Mrs. Edward Orr, said his job is an appointive one and not subject to civil service.

"Therefore, Mr. Hare is not obligated to resign his post," she added.

Point To Cleary, Brake

A fair spokesman said Hare probably would not enter the campaign until after the fair closes Sept. 12.

Democratic leaders noted that neither Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary nor State Treasurer D. Hale Brake resigned from their posts when they campaigned recently for the Republican nomination for governor.

"The Republicans have a way of trying to make up new rules for politics as they go along," said Neil Staehler, Democratic state chairman.

'Monumental' Tax Revision Act Signed By Eisenhower

Farm Bill Held Up By Dispute On Dairy Props

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (P)—A compromise farm bill carrying out most of President Eisenhower's requests was agreed upon today by a Senate-House conference committee.

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (P)—Senate-House conferees try again today to settle their differences over price support levels for dairy products—the last major obstacle to the writing of a compromise farm bill.

Argument over dairy supports led to an angry breakdown of talks Saturday but conference leaders later agreed to another meeting today after a weekend cooling-off period.

The renewal of talks was negotiated by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Rep. Hope (R-Kan.), who head the agriculture committees and the conferees of the two houses. This was viewed as a sign that Aiken and Hope were still optimistic about chances of a dairy dispute compromise.

Accepted To Brownell

The new approach is intended to supplant a bill that whipped through the Senate last week which would make it a crime to belong to the Communist party provided a person committed an overt act while a party member.

Ferguson explained that the plan agreed upon today approaches the question from the standpoint of the Communist party as such rather than individual members.

Martin and Ferguson, the latter chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said that the new plan is acceptable to the administration. They said Atty. Gen. Brownell sat in on the White House discussions this morning.

May Pass House Today

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, told reporters he thought the House might pass the new bill today under a suspension of the rules.

He said he also expects Senate action this week on three other anti-subversive bills that would make it easier to remove security risks who are employed in defense plants, tighten penalties for espionage, and deny pensions or other benefits to government employees who are convicted under loyalty actions or refuse to testify on such issues.

The administration had been dissatisfied with the bill passed by the Senate.

Redrafted Bill Aims At Communist Party

WASHINGTON (P)—Congressional leaders agreed at a White House conference today to try to push through congress a new bill to outlaw the Communist party as such.

In a session with President Eisenhower, the decision was to get the House to pass a measure declaring the Communist party is unlawful and without any rights.

It would not make membership in the party by individuals unlawful. But Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the government already can go after individual Communists, and is doing so, under the Smith Act, which makes it illegal to conspire to overthrow the government.

The new approach is intended to supplant a bill that whipped through the Senate last week which would make it a crime to belong to the Communist party provided a person committed an overt act while a party member.

Boy, 10, Slain By Playmate

DETROIT (P)—Eight-year-old Edith Fragner shot and killed a 10-year-old playmate, James D. Mackey, Sunday night when he dared her to fire a .22 rifle she was pointing at him, police reported.

The girl was released today in custody of her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Fragner. Mrs. Fragner said she bought the gun recently and kept it loaded because she feared burglars.

Edith told police she, James and five other youngsters were playing on a neighbor's porch when an argument developed. She ran home. The others followed her, started pounding on the door and taunting her.

When they refused to stop, she said she got the gun and was pointing it through the closed window at James when he dared her to shoot.

Lillian Gish Back In Motion Pictures

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Eight years after her last film role and 41 years after her first, Lillian Gish has returned to the film capital to co-star in a new motion picture.

Charles Laughton, who will direct the film, and Shelley Winters, who will co-star with Miss Gish, met the veteran actress on her arrival from New York Sunday.

She appeared in her first movie in 1913, later attained fame for her part in "Birth of a Nation."

Robert M. Montgomery, state elections director, reported that his office had completed a new counting of the signatures under more lenient standards set up two weeks ago in an opinion from Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard.

The new count, Montgomery said, showed that the petitions had 310,774 valid signatures, well over the 286,595 needed. Williams, however, said that workers for the Council of Churches in the original count found many signatures being counted which they claimed were not valid.

Recheck Signatures

He asked the board at next week's hearing to set up the machinery on rechecking the signatures by county clerks against their registration lists.

The petitions were circulated by the Michigan Assn. of Non-Profit Charitable Organizations.

Williams issued a formal statement which said in part:

"The Council of Churches are opposed to the running of lotteries in the State of Michigan and the sale of lottery tickets therein because they consider such practices to be morally wrong and the source of great social evil."

Decision By Sept. 2

The petitions seek the placing of a proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot. The board has to make its decision on the sufficiency of the petitions by Sept. 2.

$500,000—John W. Meredith, 50, of Fairmont, W. Va., has been arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the loss of an alleged $500,000 from Fairmont's First National Bank. FBI officials in Washington, D. C., allege that Meredith, the bank's cashier, had authorized a system of permitting two companies to cash checks which were never deducted from their accounts or posted. Meredith is free on bail, pending further investigation.

General Overhaul

In all, the initial year's tax cuts will total about $1,363,000,000. This will be increased later as the new program takes full effect.

Eisenhower has called tax revision the cornerstone of his entire domestic program. The measure makes no major changes in revenue rates but rewrites almost every tax law on the books.

Many Democrats contend the GOP tax program is slanted in favor of corporations and the wealthy.

Removes "Shackles"

Republican leaders argued that the tax changes will remove many "shackles" from business expansion, encourage growth, create more and better jobs for workers, and give the whole economy a boost.

The measure, nearly 1,000 pages in length and marking the first major tax revision since 1875, calls for changes along four general lines:

1. It eliminates what its sponsors call harsh inequities on many individuals with special needs or problems. These provisions include new or bigger tax deductions for medical expenses, retired persons, sick-leave pay, dependent children who earn more than $600, mothers or widowers who pay child-care expenses while they work, and many others.

2. It includes a host of benefits for corporations and other business firms, in effect providing a whole new climate for the national economy. It permits much faster deductions for wear and tear on new equipment and buildings, a special deduction on stockholders' income from dividends, more freedom to pile up surplus funds for future expansion, more liberal treatment of research expenses, more liberal provisions for deducting losses in bad years from profits in good years, and many other such items.

3. The entire tax code is streamlined and clarified. Tougher penalties for evasion are included.

4. It plugs some 50 loopholes believed to have let some people duck their fair share of taxes.

The measure also extends the present 52 per cent corporation income tax rate for one more year, to bring in an estimated $1,200,000,000.

One change affects all individual taxpayers: April 15—instead of the traditional March 15—is set as the deadline for filing income tax returns.

Most of the new benefits go into effect for the year which began last Jan. 1 and will show up in tax returns due next April 15.

Church Pageant Draws 125,000 Attendance

By GEORGE CORNELL

CHICAGO (P)—Chanting voices, chiming bells and air-piercing trumpets roared above 125,000 persons in Soldier Field Sunday night, a highlight of the first day of the Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

In a spectacle packed with drama and reverence, figures huddled in a pool of light raised their arms high as the hymn of "Come, Lord Jesus, Come" surged forth.

The outdoor service brought together believers of many creeds and customs in one of this country's greatest displays of Christian faith. The massive crowd, brought to Chicago by four special trains, 503 chartered buses and 9,300 automobiles from all over the nation, jammed the huge stadium and packed the entrances.

125,000 Attending

The number inside before the service began was estimated by Park District Police Chief George A. Olewus as "more than 125,000." At the same time, an announcer said 30,000 were outside, unable to get in.

The stirring Festival of Faith came after the World Assembly opened with a morning worship service in suburban Evanston, with the 1,500 representatives from 161 denominations in 48 countries present.

"We have learned how to study, to speak, to stand and to serve together," Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington, one of five council presidents, said in a sermon. "We intend to stay together."

4,000 In Pageant

The dramatic evening service depicted in music and pagentry the creation of the earth and man, the rise of evil, the coming of Christ, his Resurrection and finally, the promise of a new world. It used a cast of 4,000.

With the huge bowl of the field in darkness, a fanfare of trumpets sounded suddenly from a high parapet, and a spear of light fell on a man standing in the center of the field on a tall, gold-draped rostrum.

"Oh, all ye works of the Lord," he intoned. And out of the darkness chorused a choir of hundreds, "Bless Ye the Lord." There were more praises and responses, then a 2,000-member choir sang out: "Holy, holy, holy."

Tableau of Music

Flood lights bathed the green field, and into the arena moved a slow procession of leaders of the worldwide aggregation of churches—old churches, new ones, Protestant, Orthodox, Old Catholic and ancient Eastern communions.

"All hail the power of Jesus' name," sang the chorus.

Then, for two hours, there unfolded a tableau of stirring music, of dancers in costumes of gold, pink, blue, green, lavender and red.

In symbolic movements, under an ever-changing spectrum of lights, they traced the birth of life, its subjection to evil and the struggle against it toward redemption.

Sheppard Will Be Freed On Bail

CLEVELAND (P)—Judge William K. Thomas announced today he would grant bail for Dr. Samuel A. Sheppard until Wednesday.

The common pleas judge said he would fix the amount of bond after consultation with the prosecutor who was in another part of the courthouse with the grand jury.

Shortly before his announcement on bail, which the prosecution said it would "vigorously oppose," Judge Thomas continued a preliminary hearing of the charge against Sheppard until Wednesday.

This permitted by-passing of the hearing in favor of direct grand jury presentation.

The rescheduling was regarded as a technicality to keep alive the first degree murder warrant against the 30-year-old osteopath.

Father Lifts Car Off Son's Leg

HARMONY, R. I. (P)—William R. Packman Sr., weights only 130 pounds but he lifted a 3,300-pound auto off his young son's leg Sunday.

Packman said he was backing his car out of a picnic area when he felt a bump. He got out of the car and saw one wheel resting on his 4-year-old son's leg.

The son was pulled clear while Packman lifted the car.

The leg was only bruised.

Sack Bay's Centennial Is Marked By History Picnic

The 100-year history of the Sack Bay community—from cotton to nylon and washboards to electricity—was told by descendants of pioneer families Sunday afternoon at a family picnic sponsored by the Delta County Historical Society.

More than 100 persons gathered for the informal program at Sack Bay County Park, arranged by the Historical Society and a local committee headed by Howard Gierke, Fairbanks Township supervisor.

Charles Folio, Escanaba, president of the Delta County Historical Society, introduced the officers of the Society present for the event. They are Atty. William E. Anderson, Escanaba, vice president; Mrs. Wilma Cole, Rapid River, secretary; and George Embs, Escanaba, treasurer.

Tribute To Pioneers
Gierke introduced those who appeared on program, and Miss Adelle Elliott read a roll call of pioneer families. Most of the names of pioneer settlers at Sack

Bay were represented by some of their descendants.

Harry Greene reviewed the lumbering history of the area, from the days of the pioneers when the first settlers used only axes, to the present time when pulp wood and poles are the principal woods products. The transition in logging transportation ranged from oxen and river drives to trucks and tractors.

"My people were among those who settled here nearly 100 years ago," Greene said. "Today's program is a memorial tribute to the memory of those pioneers."

Colin Greene, who was born in 1874, told of early-day farming commenting that a farmer in those days "was a good farmer if he was good at plowing between the stumps."

Wood To Plastic
John Lang, one of the older residents of the area, told of river drives and early-day logging experiences.

Howard Gierke reviewed 100 years of commercial fishing, beginning with the time when only gill nets, hand-knit of cotton and linen, were used by the fishermen and the salted fish were transported in barrels by schooner to Chicago.

Now nets are made of nylon, the boats are made of aluminum and plastic, and the fish are shipped iced and fresh to markets as far distant as New York City. Commercial fishing has for 100 years been the principal industry and the main "cash crop" of Sack Bay, Fairport and other Garden Peninsula ports.

Miss Adelle Elliott conducted the roll call of pioneer families, and requested descendants of the pioneers to tell what they knew of their ancestors.

Pioneer Families
Mrs. Henry Jacobson, reporting on the Philomen Thompson family, said that Mr. Thompson came to Sack Bay, and was greeted by one incident in which Mr. Thompson "brought the first washboard to Sack Bay," and was greeted by his grateful wife with the exclamation that "now the hard work is over!" Among descendants of Philomen Thompson is Fr. Arnold Thompson of Escanaba, Mrs. Jacobson reported.

Miss Elliott said that Samuel Elliott settled in Sack Bay and his descendants at the program were the three Elliott sisters whose home is on the site of land where it was established more than 90 years ago.

Other pioneer families included the Richard Champs, Henry B. Hazens, Abraham Brown, Aaron Thompson, William Wilson, Edward Anderson, Mrs. Gray "the lady doctor," Edward Coffey, Joseph Arnold, the Dalgord family, Eli Hazen, McDonald family, Thomas Smith, Levi Olmsted, John Dotsch, Hiram Squires, Frank Hazen, Fred Olmsted.

A display of old photographs of Sack Bay pioneers and scenes of the area was arranged by Mrs. Harold Stern and attracted keen interest. One of the views of Sack Bay pictured a building erected in 1865 and still standing—the first public school building in Delta County.

Report Theft Of $150 At City Beach House

Victor Gallagher, Evansville, Ind., late Sunday afternoon reported to Escanaba police that $150 and gasoline credit cards had been stolen from his clothing placed in a locker at Escanaba Municipal Beachhouse.

Police investigated and reported that Gallagher had been swimming during the afternoon, leaving his clothing in a locker. He returned to find the locker opened and his clothing gone.

The clothing was found in another locker, with a $100 bill left untouched, but $150 (largely in $20 bills) was missing.

Two Remaining Bodies Found

Ending a five-day search, the bodies of James A. and James E. Van Hook were found 8:30 a. m. Sunday one mile northwest of the Happy Landing Resort near the middle of Indian Lake. The former, the father, was 59 and a Chicago resident. His son was 39 and from Barry, Ill.

William Van Hook, 25, Chicago, was found Saturday morning after his body had floated to the surface about one mile north of the spot where his brother and father were located.

The three men had been missing since 9 a. m. Tuesday after going fishing in rough seas. Their 14-foot aluminum boat was recovered Wednesday near Harrison beach, about two miles from the spot where the bodies were located Sunday. Their equipment was found near the same spot that morning.

Larry Boyd, searching in a boat Sunday with Arthur Lehman and Herman Strasler, saw the two older men's bodies rise to the surface nearly simultaneously. The lake was reported very calm Sunday morning. Both men were fully clothed, though lacking boots. County Coroner Edward Jackson pronounced both dead from drowning.

The locating of the bodies ended a quest that had occupied State Police troopers from Gladstone, Manistique and Marquette; Conservation Department officers; City Policemen, Coast Guardsmen, resort owners and many volunteers. Two helicopters, one from the Traverse City Coast Guard Station, the other from Kinross Air Base, assisted in the finally successful search.

William's body was shipped to the Starr Funeral Home, Chicago, Saturday evening. The corpse of James A. will leave this evening for the same destination. Also tonight, James E. will be sent to the Hufnagel Funeral Home in Barry, Ill.

Gladstone Man Held As Robber

Edgar Nadeau, 22, of 320 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone, was arraigned in Justice Court this morning on a charge of breaking and entering the Dan Dee Dress Shop, 714 Delta Ave., Gladstone, Sunday night and stealing a quantity of ladies' garments.

Nadeau waived examination and was bound over to Circuit Court. He was unable to furnish $2,000 bond and was committed to the county jail.

The dress shop was broken into about nine o'clock Sunday evening. The intruder gained entry by pushing the front door and breaking the lock loose from the inside casing. The intruder apparently made no effort to conceal his actions and the crime was witnessed by several persons. The store is located on Gladstone's main business street near a well lighted street lamp.

A considerable number of ladies' garments were taken, including skirts and slacks. Apparently the intruder made two or more trips with armloads of merchandise.

Witnesses identified the intruder as Nadeau and city police began searching for him. Part of the stolen goods was found on a floor at Nadeau's home. Additional stolen merchandise was located on a lawn on Minnesota Ave. along the route between the Dan Dee Dress Shop and Nadeau's home. Police located Nadeau across the street from the shop, watching the police action in the robbery investigation at the store.

Police said that Nadeau had been drinking. He was lodged in the Gladstone city jail. Nadeau recently was released from prison after serving a year and a half term for unlawfully driving away an automobile.

Churchmen Gather As World Council Opens At Evanston

(Rev. James H. Bell is attending the assembly of the World Council of Churches in Evanston as an accredited representative of the Escanaba Daily Press. His daily dispatches will relate his impressions of the assembly.)

By REV. JAMES H. BELL, EVANSTON, ILL. — People of every kind and color are pouring into this midwestern university town for what is being hailed as the most important church gathering of our generation.

The Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches began Sunday with a church service in the First Methodist Church of Evanston. Presiding were presidents of the World Council, men whose names read like a roster of the great statesmen of the Church—Oxnam, Fisher, Berggrun, Boegner, and the host pastor, Rev. Harold Bosley.

There are two fundamental problems facing the World Council. Can it translate the Christian message of hope into such vividly real terms that modern man will understand it and grasp it? Does Christianity really have any message for today worth listening to? The problem is reflected in the Council's choice of a theme for this great meeting, "Christ—The Hope of the World."

Either Christ is the hope, and in vivid enough terms so that the average layman, without theological training, can appreciate Him, or else He is merely a vague figure in the confusing arguments of the theologians. The theme was discussed at the opening plenary session at McGaw Memorial Hall Sunday afternoon, and we will soon know whether this is to be the private debating ground of scholars whose language the average man can't comprehend.

The other problem is that of church unity. The World Council has never seen its task as one of developing into a super-church. But unless it deals effectively with the tensions and beliefs that divide Christendom into a tragic number of sects, it is not speaking to our generation. The Church, made up of a number of churches, still looks for the voice of the prophet to lead it out of the confusing wilderness of conflicting creeds into the light of a united and unified Church.

What the World Council can provide is not a blue print to be offered to the churches, but the voice of prophecy and leadership demanding that we end our schisms. The World Council can give the Church the vision, the inspiration, and many of the tools to accomplish unity.

Six-Year-Old Boy Drowns At Escanaba Yacht Basin

Robert Beaudry, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beaudry, of 236 Lake Shore Drive, drowned in 12 feet of water at the Escanaba yacht basin late yesterday afternoon, where he and his brother, Joseph, 4, were playing.

The accident occurred about 5:40 p. m., according to Escanaba police, who said the body was recovered at 6 p. m. after it had been in the water approximately 20 minutes.

Because of the youngster's brother's age, police said they were unable to definitely determine what happened, but they understood that Robert lost his balance and fell into the water at the boat wells while throwing a stick into the water.

Fisherman Sounds Alarm — The boat wells are located just east of the band stand and a short distance from the Beaudry home.

William Rippey of 211 Ogden Ave., fishing from the basin shore, heard the splash and saw Joseph pointing into the water. He told police he ran to the spot, stripped off his trousers and dived until he was exhausted. Unable to find the body he called for help.

The body was recovered 20

Bil. To Outlaw Communist Party Recognizes Reds As Traitors

PRESIDENT Eisenhower, Attorney General Brownell and J. Edgar Hoover all are opposed to the proposal to outlaw the Communist party in America because they are fearful that it will provide propaganda material for the Reds and also because

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"You know how it is on commuter trains, writes a Rye (N. Y.) reader. "Even though you're not trying, you can't help overhearing conversations between other passengers sitting nearby. Mostly the topics are routine—weather, golf scores, that sort of thing. But every so often, you'll hear a remark that arouses your curiosity."

"That happened to me going home on the milk train the other early morning. Two prosperous looking fellows ahead of me were talking about television and the theater, but it wasn't the sort of chatter you usually hear between commuters—what shows ya seen lately? sort of thing. These chaps were obviously insiders because they kept using trade lingo. Most of it wasn't hard to follow but the one interchange that still puzzles me went like this.

"First man: 'I see in VARIETY your show did twelve-five last week. Not bad for this weather.'

"Second man: 'Yeah, but that was on twofers.'

"First man: 'Oh, I see.'

"I'm not at all sure that I approve the ethics of my reader. Not only does he eavesdrop, he passes the substance of an overheard conversation on for public consumption! However, since I have deleted the name of the show involved, I suppose there's no harm done.

A "twofer" is theatrical slang for a kind of cut-rate ticket sometimes more properly called a "club" ticket. Many thousands of these pasteboards are passed out free at cigar stands and in business offices. On presentation at the box office, the patron is allowed to buy two regular tickets for the price of one. Hence the nickname, "twofers." The "twelve-five" referred to would be the show's boxoffice gross of twelve thousand, five hundred dollars.

"Twofers" are only one kind of theatrical "paper"—complimentary tickets. Newspaper and magazine critics, of course, get press passes and friends of the management get "Annie Oakleys"—tickets punched with a hole to indicate that they are issued free of charge. A standard practice when a how is ailing is for the management to "paper the house"—issue many passes or "twofers" to preserve the appearance of a successful run.

Try And Stop Me

IN THE PLAYERS' CLUB, the death mask of Richard Sheridan invariably intrigues visiting celebrities. A hard-to-impress author once grumbled to Oliver Herford, "Hmph! He looks mighty dour for a celebrated humorist." Herford patiently pointed out, "You must remember he was not at his best when that mask was made."

On the Art Linkletter program, the son of a Hollywood producer was asked if his mother did something too. "She used to be a big star in pictures," said the boy. "What does she do now?" persisted Linkletter. "Now," sighed the lad, "she's just a woman."

Jimmy "Schnozzola" Durante starred in a one-reeler produced by the Treasury Department to stimulate the sale of U. S. savings bonds. And Jimmy was asked, "How they believe that such action will force the Communists into hiding.

The proposal, however, passed the Senate by an 85-0 vote and has been sent to the House where administration efforts will be concentrated in an effort to shelve the bill.

The President and his law enforcement aides are doing an excellent job in combating the menace of Communism but their opposition to this bill, we think, is misguided. The truth is that Communists in America are already operating in hiding. It is an underground movement now and no legislation could possibly drive the Reds further into hiding that they already are.

The Smith Act has served this purpose. Already dozens of Communist leaders have been arrested, convicted and imprisoned under the Smith Act which, although does not outlaw the Communist party as such, does provide that it is a crime to conspire against the government.

Communists conspire against the government. Therefore, in effect, it is illegal even now to be an active Communist and to participate in Communist conspiracies. The legislation that has passed the Senate by an unanimous vote simply goes one logical step further and spells out in language that cannot be mistaken or misinterpreted that it is illegal to be a Communist and that the Communist party itself is unlawful.

The Communist party in America is not a political party in the true sense of the word. It is a conspiracy headed by a foreign government to foment revolution and to seize control of government by force. To be a Communist in America is to be a traitor and treason is the worst crime in the book. Let's face it.

The propaganda aspect of the proposal to outlaw the Communist party can and should be disregarded in an appraisal of the legislative proposal. Its effect, if any, is only upon those who are Communists at heart. Surely it has no effect upon anyone who understands Communism and its objective of world revolution.

Only Communist leaders thus far have been the target of the Smith Act. But the act is broad enough to include in its scope everyone who is an active Communist, big or small.

Communists in America are spies for Soviet Russia. We had better recognize that and act accordingly.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President press conferences are getting no better—in fact, they are doing increased harm not only to the President and the Republican party but also to the influence abroad of the foreign policies of the United States.

Unfortunately much of the damage is done because sometimes the President isn't told the full story behind the questions fired at him.

Thus this week Mr. Eisenhower was asked about recurrent suggestions that the United States sever diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia, and he was told that the most recent one came from General Mark Clark. The fact was that the General was a witness before the Senate Rules Committee on other subjects, and Senator Jenner of Indiana, chairman, read to him a resolution, introduced by himself and Senator McCarran of Nevada, which would simply express the sense of the Senate that it would be desirable for the United States to sever diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and the satellite governments. General Clark was asked what he thought about it, and he replied briefly that, if he were a member of the Senate, he would vote for it.

Now Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference was not told that fact nor was he told that a committee of nine members of the house of representatives, both Republicans and Democrats, had just filed a report unanimously recommending that the President convene an international conference to seek agreement with our allies on the severance of all diplomatic relations and the termination of all trade with the Communist countries. This committee has been taking testimony in Europe and elsewhere for several months from persons of prominence who have escaped from the Communist regime and who are in a position to tell Americans how influential such a policy would be in encouraging the peoples behind the iron curtain.

PRESIDENT "STUMBLES"

But Mr. Eisenhower, without going into the merits of this very difficult and complicated question, rejected offhand any consideration of it. He said that if anyone would sit down and study the conflicting considerations objectively and not merely shoot from the hip on such questions, they would arrive at a similar conclusion.

But how do the nine members of the house committee who have spent many months on this problem feel? Have they been shooting from the hip, or has the President himself been doing that very thing because he has not been properly briefed on how the manifestation by him of a closed mind on this subject can bring discouragement to the enslaved peoples? Why did he have to discuss the question at all?

In domestic affairs, the President also stumbled along at his press conference, leaving in its wake ambiguities that cannot possibly do his party any good. He was asked whether, in view of his statement in the past that he felt an obligation to support all nominees of the Republican party in the congressional elections, he would give heed to a protest from Republicans in New Jersey who want the regular party nominee, Clifford Case, to withdraw from the race. Mr. Eisenhower made a confusing answer. He said that generalizations he had made in the past do not stand up. This might permit the inference that he was backing away from his previous position. Then he added that he stood behind the party nominee, Mr. Case.

As a result of his press conference information, the New York Times had a headline the next day on its front page: "President to back own candidates, ignoring factions." Beneath it was an article saying the President "made it clear that the non-Eisenhower and anti-Eisenhower Republicans could have no assurance in each and every case of White House assistance."

LACK TEAM WORK

It isn't clear at all whether the President is backing away from support of all nominees of the Republican party and means to be choosy about those who don't entirely support his program, thus preferring to let some Democratic nominees win. This could conceivably mean a Democratic congress if the voting is close.

What seemed worst of all at the press conference was the revelation that the President and his principal assistant, former Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, are not working as closely together as might be imagined. The President was asked about the statement by Mr. Adams on a television program implying that the President might not run again in 1956. Mr. Eisenhower replied that he didn't know why any member of his staff was saying these things, that Governor Adams had never spoken about it to him nor had anyone else on his staff. He did say they had a right to speculate, but that whatever facts Mr. Adams had he wished he would give them to the President, for the (Mr. Eisenhower) had none.

If this were the first time Mr. Adams had discussed the subject publicly, it might be surprising, but he has made previous speeches on that subject. One would think by this time the President and his assistant would have had a heart-to-heart talk about the danger of raising doubts inside the Republican party as to whether it is to have the benefit of Mr. Eisenhower's leadership in a second term. It is conceded that politically—and especially in congress—any doubt about running for a second term materially weakens an incumbent President. Caution at press conferences—or, perhaps better, briefings for the President ahead of time—might spare the Republican party a lot of headaches.

Stomachs Empty And Jails Full In Red-Strangled East Berlin

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

BERLIN—(NEA)—While stomachs remain empty in East Berlin, the jails are as full as ever.

Since the Big Four conference of last January, the Red regime—forever in mortal fear of another uprising—has considerably tightened its stranglehold on East Germany, I found during a new tour of the Red sector.

The Red terror continues unabated. Fat Ernst Wollweber's execution squads have not relaxed for a minute. East Berliners still live in terror of the M.V.D.'s midnight knock on the door.

The Communists are propaganda masters. They are great at making gestures. On the eve of the All-German Evangelical Church Congress—which just concluded its sessions in Leipzig—"Premier" Otto Grotewohl suddenly decided to release 900 political prisoners. They had been held for years without trial in the notorious Soviet concentration camps at Bautzen, Waldheim, Torgau, Brandenburg and Hoheneck.

I interviewed several of the returnees. They seemed like strange creatures from another world. Even in the safety of their western haven they were haunted by the tortures they suffered at the hands of their Red jailers. They steadfastly refused to disclose details of their prison life in fear they would endanger the release of thousands of prisoners still held.

They did reveal, however, that at least 600 political prisoners died in Red jails and concentration camps of disease and ill treatment in the last three years. An unknown number committed suicide in despair that they never would be released.

These facts are widely known in East Berlin. There is hardly a family that has not seen some of its relatives, friends or neighbors dragged off to jail or to the Soviet slave labor camps of Vorkuta or Siberia. Few, if any, have any illusions that life could ever be easier under the Red regime.

Nevertheless, having lost faith in the democratic West, more and more East Germans seem ready to bow their heads before the autocrats of the East. The heroic spirit of the June uprising is getting dimmer each day.

Perhaps this was the kind of despair the Russians hoped to achieve with their protracted East-West conferences in Berlin and Geneva in the first place.

It was obviously to bolster the Berliners' morale that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer staged the Presidential Elections in West Berlin.

For a moment the Western sector of the carved and butchered city became again the capital of a free Germany. But only for a moment. After Theodore Heuss was re-elected President of the Bonn Republic and the impressive ceremonies and festivities were over, grim reality gained the upper hand again.

Said and East Berliner who sneaked across the border into the West sector to watch the elections:

"I just had a beautiful dream—the dream of a free and united Germany. Unfortunately, it was only a dream. Now I must go back to my tormentors. But back I must go because there is no place for me here."

We walked together to the Potsdamer Place, the tiny square separating freedom from slavery, and I watched him sneak back to the East sector past the armed Red guards.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DONATHAN

SOMETHING DIFFERENT—While visiting with friends the other evening the conversation was abruptly changed by the guest in the house, a lady from Lower Michigan, who wanted to know why Escanaba doesn't do something to make it "distinctive" and attractive to tourists.

"What is there to see in Escanaba that's different? If you do have even one outstanding attraction, why don't you advertise it?" she challenged.

She had been here several times in the past, visiting relatives, she pointed out, but aside from shopping in Escanaba there wasn't much of anything else to do.

The Escanaba residents took the bait, hook, line and sinker and began an inventory of what there is to do and see. They started with the ore docks, traveled over to Ludington Park—and came to a limping halt.

"Even if that's all you have, you should tell people about them," said the lady somewhat triumphantly. "What you need is a promoter!"

SUMMING IT UP—The discussion had gained sufficient momentum by that time to bring out suggestions for promotion that ranged from more signs to a Michigan wildlife zoo at Ludington Park.

"Escanaba is not well advertised," said the lady, who drove to Escanaba by auto via St. Ignace and Highway US-2. "Other towns had signs letting you know how far it was to their community, but you don't know you're approaching Escanaba until you're here."

And if the ore docks and the shore park were such attractions, why weren't they advertised more? Unless someone told you, a visitor wouldn't know Escanaba had either one, she said.

"Why not a zoo?" she said suddenly, struck by inspiration. "Everybody likes to see wild animals. It could have deer and bear—you know, the Northern Michigan animals. People would love it!"

Another thing, what about public rest rooms in the downtown business district? Do they have any? She had never been able to find them if we did.

And those ore docks we were listing as a tourist attraction, why not run a boat over there, carrying visitors on short sightseeing trips? That's right, said the Escanaba residents, the ore docks could best be seen from the water.

WHAT THEY LIKE—Caught up by her enthusiasm, the lady inspired a few suggestions from the local residents, who had been somewhat lukewarm toward the whole discussion.

What Escanaba might arrange, which would be without cost to the taxpayers and possibly might bring some profit to the city general fund, would be granting concessions for lunch and refreshment stands in Ludington Park.

Someone suggested the possibility of having a kiddie ride concession for the summer at the park; another member of the group said he thought a museum would be a tourist attraction. The lady nodded her head vigorously.

"You must have something for visitors to see and do and direct them to it," she said.

Indians, she continued, tourists come to the Upper Peninsula expecting to see at least a few Indians. We told her about the recently-opened Indian Village near the Fair Grounds and she said she thought it should be an Escanaba asset.

OUTSTANDING FEATURE—Indian ceremonial dances and songs are always a good tourist attraction, she said. Over at the Deils in Wisconsin they pack 'em in for such things.

"We hear a lot about Escanaba down in Lower Michigan, but not in relation to the tourist industry," she said.

We told her that Escanaba appeared to be primarily occupied with industrial promotion, and she came right back with the assertion that the tourist business is one of Michigan's principal industries.

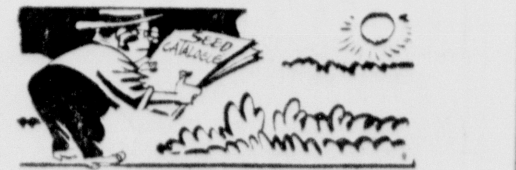

"What you need is an outstanding attraction or entertainment to publicize. I don't know what it should be—zoo, Indian pageant, cruises on the bay—but you people should be able to come up with something," she declared.

So we have been thinking about it since and confess that we have been unsuccessful in finding an acceptable project. They either cost too much money or there is no one as inspired as the lady from Lower Michigan to put them into execution.

Bitter Sage

THE STORY: Wes Tancered, slayer of the notorious outlaw Sam Older, has come to Sage City under the name of John Bailey. He works as a printer for Luke Miller, editor of a weekly newspaper, who is trying to clean up Sage City. Jacob Fugger, who owns most of the town, wants the place kept "wide open" for the cowboys who drive trail herds from Texas to Kansas. As a result of Miller's interference, Fugger sends a henchman, Bill Bleek, to the newspaper to smash the machinery and dump all of the type cases.

XIII

Tancered ate supper and then walked back to the Star office, his mind preoccupied and he was inside before he became aware of Bill Bleek's vandalism.

A groan was torn from his throat. He walked through the shop. The type was undamaged, but it would take all of them a dozen hours to sort it out so it could be used again. The press could be repaired, but new parts would have to be obtained and none was available closer than St. Louis.

A cold rage seeped through Tancered. A physical injury to a person he could understand, but to destroy machinery and dump out type like this that would cost some hours of painstaking toil.

Lee Kinnaird, standing across the street from the newspaper office, watched Tancered go into the shop. He was halfway across the street when a pair of mounted men swirled around the corner from South Street and bore down upon the print shop. One of the riders was Manny Harpending.

Kinnaird stepped in the middle of the street and the Texas men pulled up their horses.

"Where do you think you're going, Manny?" Kinnaird asked quietly.

"You ain't the marshal of this town any more," sneered Harpending.

"That's right, I'm not," said Kinnaird, calmly. "I quit this afternoon, because Jacob Fugger wouldn't let me kill you."

"I ain't afraid of you, Kinnaird," blustered Harpending. "Any time you're looking for a showdown..."

"What's the matter with right now?"

Harpending moistened his lips with his tongue. He knew Kinnaird's reputation. A man had to be awfully good to draw a gun against him.

"I got no quarrel with you," Harpending growled.

"Then turn your horse and ride out of town—and stay away."

Harpending hesitated. The Texas man with him regarded him in astonishment. "You gonna let him get away with that?"

"This is Lee Kinnaird," snarled Harpending. "You fight him if you want to." He whirled his horse and sent it galloping away. His friend was close behind him.

Lee Kinnaird relaxed. He turned his eyes toward Luke Miller's print shop, then he turned and walked back across the street.

Inside the print shop, Wes Tancered stared down at the bundle of his carpetbag. A long, slow sigh escaped his lips. At last he closed the carpetbag and placed it under his cot. He sent one more glance about the print shop, then he left and walked to South Street.

Fugger's store was closed to the day. Tancered tried the door, then stepped to the street and picked up a rock as big as his fist. He heaved it through the glass of the door, then reached inside the aperture and shot back the bolt. He went inside and started automatically for the right then swerved and went over to the left side. He put his foot against the grocery counter, gave a shove and knocked it over on its side. Stepping on it, he reached to the top of the shelving, gripped it firmly and backed away.

The shelves came over and merchandise spilled over the floor. Tancered got some bolts of cloth and dumped them onto the groceries, then performed the coup d'etat. He found a barrel of blackstrap molasses and kicked it over so that the molasses poured over the groceries as well as the bolts of gingham and muslin.

Most of Tancered's anger went with that but there was still a little left so he climbed the stairs to Jacob Fugger's office and emptied all the drawers of Fugger's desk onto the floor and kicked the papers around a little.

Four or five people were standing just outside the door as he came out.

"Tell Jacob it was John Bailey," he told them, "and I'll be at McCoy's Saloon for 20 minutes."

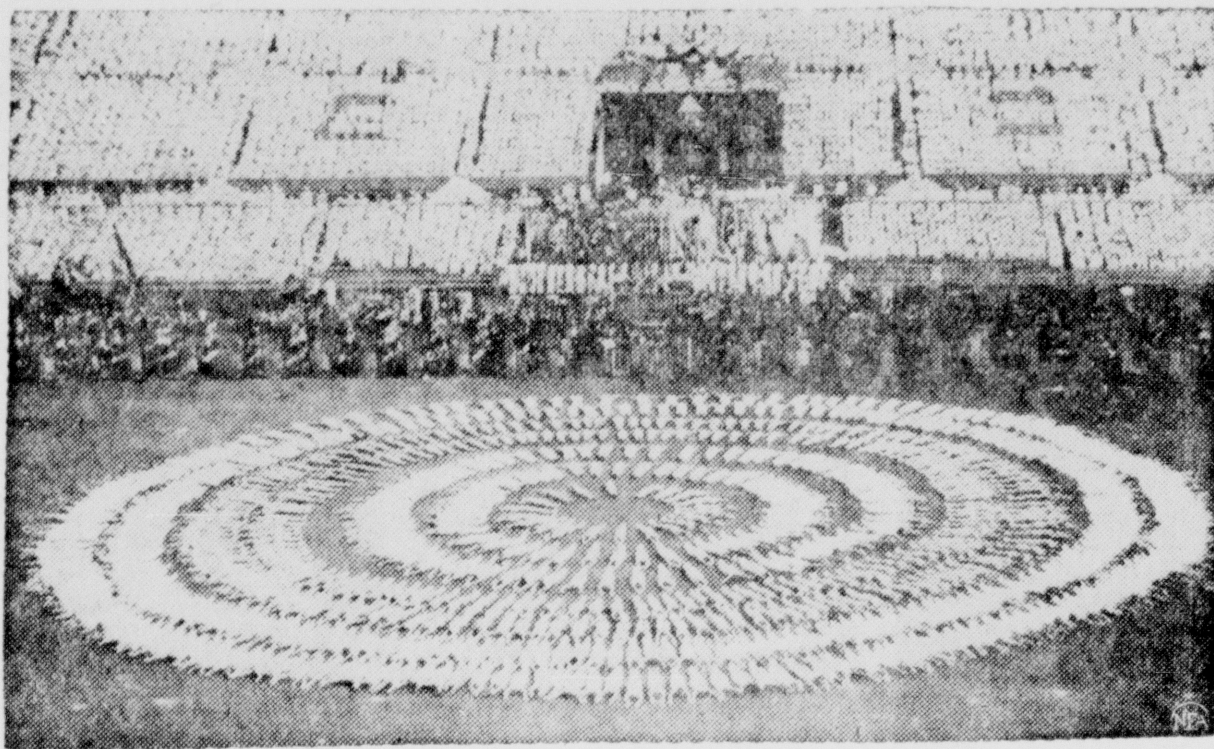

It was 15 minutes later when Bill Bleek came into McCoy's Saloon. He found Tancered at the bar with an untouched glass of beer in his hand. A happy expression was on the big man's face.

"I'm glad you paid back the visit, Bailey," Bleek purred. "It wouldn't have been half the fun if you hadn't."

"How are you going to fight?" Tancered asked.

"The way I always fight. For keeps."

Bleek peeled off his coat and tossed it on the bar. A bartender called for McCoy and the saloon-keeper rushed up from the rear. He sized up the situation instantly.

"Not in here, Bill!" he cried out.

"Jacob will pay for the damage," Bleek said. To Tancered "Oh, he's really mad. The molasses, you know."

"That was for the ink," Tancered said.

Bleek nodded. "Oh, sure."

Knowland Reports Senate Will End Work By Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican Leader, forecast today the Senate would complete its regular legislative session by next Saturday "for sure."

Knowland said in an interview prospects are "excellent" for getting through the remaining "must" legislative items by mid-week.

But, recalling his previous estimate that Congress could finish its labors July 31, he said the only safe prediction he could make was next Saturday.

Even if the Senate does finish up next week, as Knowland now predicts, its members are expected to be on call to return, probably in September of October, to hear a report by the special committee named to probe charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Sizes For Feet Differ In Holland

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The skating rink attendant asked Johan Herman Bartelink what size shoe he wore when Bartelink asked for skates.

"A 41 or 42," he told the startled attendant.

While American companions laughed it was determined that Bartelink didn't have big feet—a size 7½ was the equivalent of a 41 or 42 in his native Holland.

Discharged Soldier Is A Grieving Hero

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Some people believed Edward J. Touhey Jr., ought to get the Medal of Honor. But the U. S. Army, when it gave big Ed his goodbye papers, stamped the word "undesirable" on them. This still grieves Touhey. He doesn't like being regarded as an undesirable hero.

"Either the army should take me back into the service, or give me an honorable discharge," he said. The point at issue is whether Touhey was right or wrong in knocking down eight Russian soldiers in Vienna five years ago.

Russians Started It
"They say I caused an international incident," remarked Ed. "But I say the Russians started it. They got no right to push a man around and call him a spy. They got what they deserved."

The 6-foot-1 former military policeman now weighs 350, and he feels sad in every pound. But he was a mere 240-pound brood of a boy, not quite 20 when the event happened that ruined his military career.

"I never got to tell my side of the story at the time," he complained. Here is his version: "I had spent a month in the hospital with athlete's foot. When I got out I stopped at a bar. I drank a bottle of cognac—maybe more.

Called A Spy
"I must have drunk it too fast because when I left the bar to go to the barracks I got on the wrong streetcar and fell asleep. When I woke up I saw I was in the International Zone and got off.

"I was feeling bad and leaned against the wall of the Imperial Hotel, holding my stomach. It was a Russian hotel. A Russian officer and two armed sentries came out and made me go into the hotel. The officer called me a spy and said I had been taking pictures of Soviet personnel. Then they stood me against a wall and forcibly searched me. They were pretty rough.

"The Russian officer said he still thought I was a spy, even though he saw I didn't have any camera. He said I must have handed the camera to someone passing by.

Soldier Goes Berserk
"Then he said he was going to turn me over to the American military police. I got scared. I thought it was a trick—that he would take me to the Russian zone, and I'd never get back.

"I made a bee-line for the door. A sentry put his bayonet to my stomach. I knocked it away, and the Russian officer grabbed me from behind. That's when I went berserk. I saw red.

Touhey turned and kneed the officer, who cried out, and then Russian soldiers poured in from every side. Working with both fists and an iron chair, Touhey mowed them down. They overwhelmed him once, but he broke free and crashed through a plate glass door before another wave of Russian reinforcements finally grounded him.

Kicked Out 4 Teeth
"They stabbed me in the arm, broke three of my ribs, put a 3-inch gash in my head, and kicked out four of my teeth," Touhey recalled. "They also spit in my face and called me a capitalistic dog."

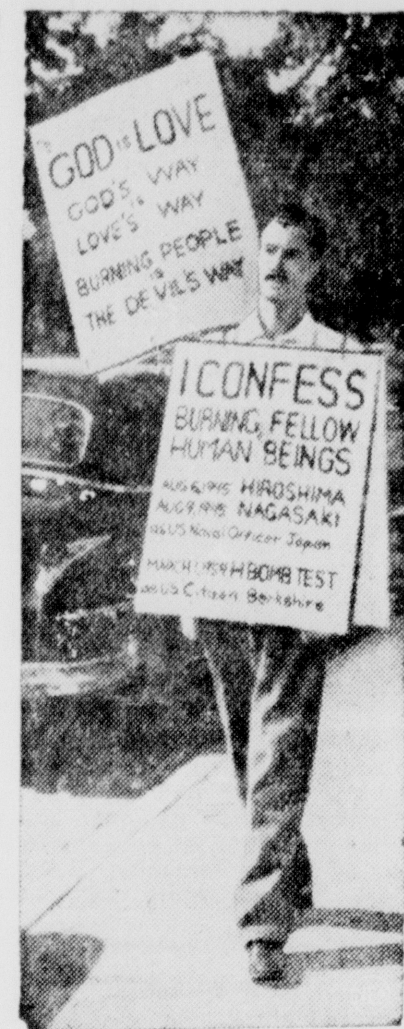

International military police, attracted by the uproar, then came into the hotel and broke up the struggle.

"The Russians put the whole blame on me," Touhey recalled sorrowfully. "They said I'd fractured a colonel's skull and broken two guys' jaws."

He admits he made one serious error on that fateful morning. "I shouldn't have drunk that cognac so fast," he said. "But I didn't start any trouble with the Russians. They did. And if I was in the same situation again, I'd do the same thing. The Russians are no good."

"When I was in the hospital later, one of our generals visited me and said, 'As an officer I have to bawl you out, but as a man I'd like to shake your hand.'"

But Touhey, unemployed since he was laid off by a steel mill recently, believes the army ought to take him back—or give him an honorable discharge.

"In three years with the army I went AWOL once," he said.

"I understand they were considering giving me a good conduct ribbon at the time this whole thing happened."

Ike's Visit At Fair Compared With Hayes'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—President Eisenhower's whirlwind visit to the Illinois State Fair next Thursday promises to be a far cry from the leisurely call paid to the fair 75 years ago by Rutherford B. Hayes.

Eisenhower plans to spend about 3½ hours in Springfield, arriving and departing by plane with intervening events geared to a split-second schedule.

The tentative speaking program at the fairgrounds grandstand allots 30 seconds to U. S. Sen. Dickson, an orator of renown, to introduce Gov. Stratton, who will present the President with even less oratorical flourish.

15-Minute Talk
Besides the top stars, only the three Republican candidates for statewide office are down for introductions and they probably won't get to say as much as a word. Eisenhower's talk is expected to run 15 minutes. It will end the speechmaking.

Not so in 1879 with Hayes, the only previous president to visit the state fair.

Hayes rolled into a gayly decorated state capital by special train on Sept. 30, the Daily State Journal reported. Arches spanned downtown streets. Flags, banners and floral displays were everywhere.

Accompanied By Sons
Accompanying the chief executive were his wife, their two sons, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, and six others, including two railroad officials and two newspapermen.

About 50 newsmen will be tagging along with Eisenhower, not to mention staff aides, air crews and secret service agents.

Carriages bearing the Hayes party were escorted to the governor's mansion by the Rockford Rifles of the Illinois National Guard. There, Hayes breakfasted with Gov. Shelby Cullom and took time to rifle through some mail. A platform had been erected on the capitol steps, and Hayes and other dignitaries addressed a large assemblage for an hour or so before proceeding to the fairgrounds amphitheater where another crowd waited.

Gov. Cullom broke the ice, and Hayes followed with a 20 or 30 minute speech predicting increased prosperity for farmers and expounding his views on the doctrine of state sovereignty.

Some 5,000 persons, seated and standing, listened in the amphitheater and the Journal reported, "almost as many were standing within sight or sound of the speakers."

GOP state leaders say 100,000 will see and hear Ike.

Lunch At 2 P. M.
When Hayes finished, the crowd shouted for Gen. Sherman, the fiery Civil War hero, who occupied a place on the carpeted platform.

Sherman spoke, and then a cry went up for Gen. Sheridan who was not present. A demand for words from former Gov. Richard Oglesby brought about 3,000 from "Old Dick" whose talk was sprinkled with witticisms and compli-

Second Round Bidding

Many players seem to have only the vaguest notion of how their own original pass should affect their subsequent responses. This applies particularly when, having passed originally, they make a two-over-one response to partner's opening bid. Apparently, they assume that this belated show of strength is all partner will need for the "proper continuation," but actually, of course, any such assumption ignores the pure logic of the situation. Let's look at a typical case:

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 64
♥ Q72
♦ A J 10 7
♣ A 6 5 4

♠ A J 9 2
♥ 10 5 3
♦ K 6 5
♣ Q 3 2

♠ 10 8 7
♥ A K J 9 5
♦ 9 8 3
♣ K 9

The bidding:

North East South West
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass
2♦ Pass Pass

North made four-odd, but a laydown game had been missed at hearts.

It was certainly not South who was responsible for this result. He had opened third-hand with a "dead minimum"; hence, it would have been highly misleading for him to rebid merely because North made a two-over-one response. This response did not offset North's original pass—his two-diamond bid would have been quite correct on some such holding as

♠ x x x
♥ x
♦ A K Q x x
♣ x x x x x

If something like this were held by North, South would not be

Widows And Cops Get Break In New Tax Act

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Widows or widowers, policemen, ministers, writers, artists, inventors, business partners...

Taxpayers who sell their home support a parent in another town, live in cooperat housing projects, or get income in advance for a future period...

All these groups may find tax benefits for them almost hidden in the hundreds of thousands of words of the new tax revision act.

Effective January 1
Most of the changes are effective last Jan. 1, and will show up in tax returns due next April 15. Here is a rundown on possible tax cuts for these special groups:

Widows and widowers—For two years after the death of a wife or husband, you may still split your income for tax purposes as most married couples do. This often puts you in a lower tax bracket. But to claim this provision, you must be supporting a dependent son or daughter.

Single Heads of Households—You may now qualify for this tax status if you are single and support a parent who lives away from your own home.

Under the old law, the parent had to live in your home. The "single head of household" status gives you one-half the benefits of income splitting, explained above.

Helps Policemen
Policemen—Now can deduct subsistence allowances up to $5 a day, which were counted as taxable income under the old law. This could mean a tax cut of about $264 a year for many federal, state and local officers.

Ministers—Cash payments to a minister for rental of a home were counted as income under the old law, although the rental value of a parsonage provided for the minister was exempt. Under the new law, the cash allowance also is exempt to the extent it is actually used for housing.

Inventors, Writers, Artists—Under the old law, income from a project which took less than three years to complete was taxed in the year in which it was received. Income from projects which took three years or more, even though received in one year, could be spread for tax purposes over three back years. Under the new law, income may be spread over a period of years if the project takes only two years or more to complete. This means income from more such work may be spread, and thus taxed at a lower rate.

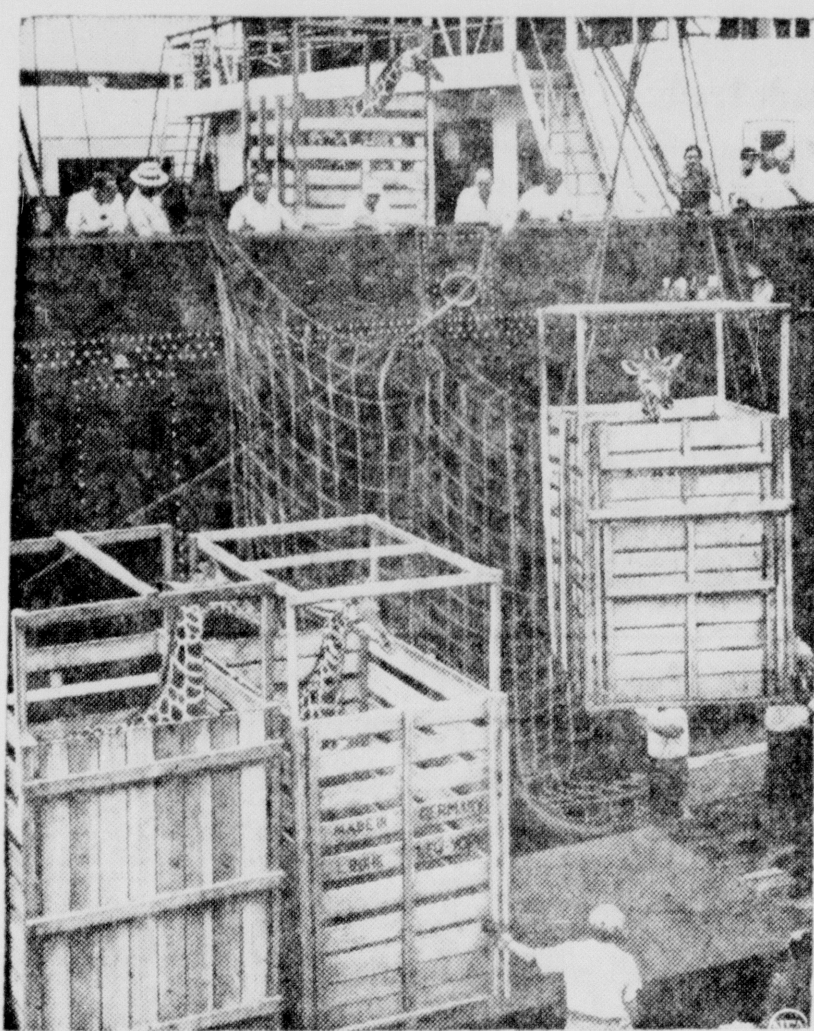

Selling Your Home
Writers and artists may spread income over the actual period of work up to 36 months. The time spread for inventors has been increased from 36 to 60 months. You qualify for this advantage only if 80 per cent or more of the income from the project is received in one year. Otherwise, you pay taxes on the income as it is received year by year.

Sale of Homes—Profit from sale of a personal residence is taxed unless invested in another home. Even then, the profit is kept in the record. If you later sell the second home, or a third or fourth or fifth, and don't re-invest all your profits in another home, the total profit on all the transactions can be taxed. In figuring your profit, the new law permits you to deduct such selling expenses as real estate commissions and "fixing up" costs—painting and other improvements completed 90 days before the sale, in order to help make the house salable.

Electric Razors Beard Contest Prize

CHESWICK, Pa. (AP) — Prizes were awarded for the growers of the fanciest beards during the Cheswick Golden Jubilee celebration and the winners promptly put them to use.

They were presented electric razors.

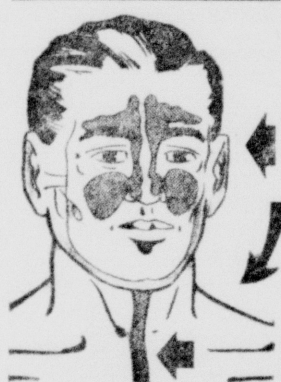

NECK AND NECK — AND NECK! — It was quite a necking party when seven giraffes arrived in New York City from Hamburg, Germany, recently. Of the eight animals originally sent, consigned to various U. S. zoos, seven arrived. One died at sea. Colorado City will get two of them, as will St. Louis. San Antonio, Tex., Fresno, Calif., and Sacramento, Calif., will get one each.

15-Year Old Check Given A Checkup

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A check issued more than 15 years ago for $105 was found in the street a half block from the funeral home of J. J. Moran and Sons to which it was issued. It was issued by Macon County and bore an endorsement, but no mark showing it had been cashed.

The mystery was cleared up when it was found that the check was in a truck of old papers hauled from the County Building. It had been returned March 16, 1938, nine days after it had been issued, cashed.

New York Gambler Held For Robbery Of Air Base Bank

CAMP SPRINGS, Md. (AP)—A 24-year-old self-styled "gambler" from New York, was held today on a charge of robbing the Andrews Air Force Base Bank of $126,638 as the search continued for two others.

The FBI identified the man held in lieu of $50,000 bail as Clarence Duke McGann, Negro, New York City.

D. K. Brown, agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI office, said McGann gave his occupations as "gambler." But Brown said the suspect "just isn't answering any other questions."

McGann was arrested on a speeding charge shortly after three Negro gunmen cleaned out the vault at the air force base, just eight miles southeast of Washington, in the biggest bank haul in Maryland history.

DAM CONDITION—Water on the Indian River flows over the remains of a dam (foreground) that at one time controlled the flow of water from Indian Lake. The condition of the dam is seen as it has been since it was dynamited in 1943. The lowered level of the Lake, and consequently the river, can be seen by the boat house in the background. In the past the water covered the boards of the building. Now the water is 18-inches below the boards. (Linderoth Photo).

15 Local Owners Enter 3 Classes

Water Festival Powerboat Racing Chairman Bob Walters announced Saturday that he had received 15 entrants in special races to be staged for local entrants Sunday on the Manistique River.

Seven drivers had registered for Class A, seven and one-half horsepower or less. Four were set for Class B races, 10 horsepower, while four were ready for the open class, 10-25 horsepower.

The local races are being run in addition to races for drivers from the Upper Peninsula Outboard Racing Association. About 30 outside racers will compete.

Prizes in the local events, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be $25 for first prize, $15 for second and $10 for third in each division.

Trophies, the Richardson Brothers for Class A, Top O' Lake Sporting Goods for Class B and Chatter's Service for the open, will also be conferred upon the winners of local races. The trophies will be permanently bestowed upon victors following winning of the cup three times.

Queen Naomi Sien will reign over the Sunday events. Her court of Constance McEachern and Beverly Gentz will assist the queen. Pages for the queen will be Pat Lowery, fourth prize winner at Aug. 7's "charming child contest" and James Moffatt, first, second and third prize winners in the contest were Jaclyn Bennett, Diana Lowery and Melinda Orr. Donna Hololik will carry the queen's crown.

2 Cars Collide; No One Injured

Thick fog early Sunday morning helped cause a minor property damage accident at 1:10 on U. S. Route 2, two-miles east of Gulliver.

Hattie Hubbard, Stephenson, driving a 1953 sedan, was passing and overtaking a 1935 coach driven by Martha L. Flynn, Wyandotte, when she saw lights approaching and back in her west-bound lane too sharply.

The right rear of the passing vehicle incurred $10 damage while the other car suffered damages amounting to $50 to the left-front. No one was injured.

ENTERTAIN ROTARY

Entertained by the Manistique Rotary Club today for golf and dinner was the Gladstone Rotary Club. The matches began at 3 p. m. at the Indian Lake Golf and Country Club while dinner will be held at 7:15 p. m.

Department Advises On Physical Exams

Advising "all parents of children entering school for the first time this fall to take (their offspring) to their family physician for a physical examination and necessary immunization," the Alger-Schoolcraft Health Department also announced Saturday two pre-school clinics, Aug. 19 and 23.

The health department will offer the two sessions for physical examination and immunization 10 a. m.-12 noon and 1:30-4 p. m., at the Health Department office in the Schoolcraft County Court House.

The Department also requested parents who live on the eastside of Manistique to bring their children the first day and the others the second session.

Ordered To Keep 'Critic' Home

DALLAS (AP)—A man who owns a young bull sought a peace bond against a neighbor woman who fired two shots at the animal, and missed.

The woman testified she shot after the bull chased her to her porch, butted a car in her driveway, then butted a garbage can in her back yard.

The judge denied the peace bond and told the owner to keep his bull at home.

Accept Bids On '55 Rodeo Site

Official notice has been sent out to communities and members of the National Rodeo Association that bids will be accepted from cities or organizations interested in sponsoring the 1955 World Championship Rodeo until Oct. 1, 1954.

The notice was prepared and sent out by George Mathison, Milwaukee, executive secretary-treasurer of the association.

A portion of the notice sent out follows:

"1. Total amount of the bid will be turned over to the National Rodeo Association. It will cover ALL prizes and trophies for bidders, and expenses incurred by the Association in advising log birlers of the site of the 1955 Rodeo.

"2. The National Rodeo Association will keep in contact with and cooperate with the sponsoring city in promoting the 1955 Rodeo.

"3. The community sponsoring the 1955 WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP RODEO, while urged to feature the championship log birling matches, will retain jurisdiction over the program, and revenues from gate receipts, souvenir programs and souvenir buttons. Two days are recommended for Rodeo activities. The host city will plan its own publicity and programing.

"As an example, the 1954 Rodeo was held in Priest River, Idaho. The Association received $2,500 from the Priest River Chamber of Commerce and cooperated with the host committee. All other financial matters, committee work and supporting community activities remained under the supervision of the Priest River C. of C.

"Prospective bidders should recognize that tonight birlers from the United States and Canada will compete. Arrangements for their participation are handled by the Association. All birlers, and Association officials handle their own expenses to and from the host city, and also during their stay therein.

Old Sanatorium Favored As New Penal Institution

KALAMAZOO — State Corrections Commission officials said today the abandoned Pine Crest Tuberculosis Sanatorium near Oshkosh would make a valuable addition to the state's penal facilities.

They inspected of the old institution Friday.

Pine Crest was abandoned a month ago when patients were moved into the state's new $2,500,000 tuberculosis sanatorium at Memorial Park Hill in the northwestern section of Kalamazoo.

Pine Crest also was proposed as a reception center for youthful offenders, as a geriatric center for care of senile and handicapped prisoners, as an honor camp for trustees and as a prison system infirmary.

Dodgers' Glee Is Tempered By Sight Of Fast-Moving Braves

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

Brooklyn's glee over dumping "them Giants" three in a row is tempered by the knowledge that giddy Milwaukee, on a nine-game spree, shows no signs of running out of firewater.

The Giants' lead, once a bulging seven games, now measures only half a game over the Dodgers. The Braves are 3½ games behind.

If Brooklyn beats the Phillies tonight in the only game scheduled, they'll trail New York by only .002.

Dodgers, Braves Win

Brooklyn bumped off New York Sunday 9-4 for a sweep of their three-game series while Milwaukee squeaked past Chicago 2-1.

St. Louis barely survived, 14-12, over Cincinnati when Gus Bell, Ted Kluszewski and Jim Green-grass hit successive homers in the ninth inning. Pittsburgh won its fourth straight 9-6, its longest streak of the year, at Philadelphia and rallied to tie the second game 6-6 in the eighth when the curfew forced play to be suspended.

Cleveland moved three full games in front of New York in the American League race. The Indians ran their winning streak to six by downing Baltimore 5-2 and 3-1.

Army's 'Peeping Tom' Has 30-Mile Range

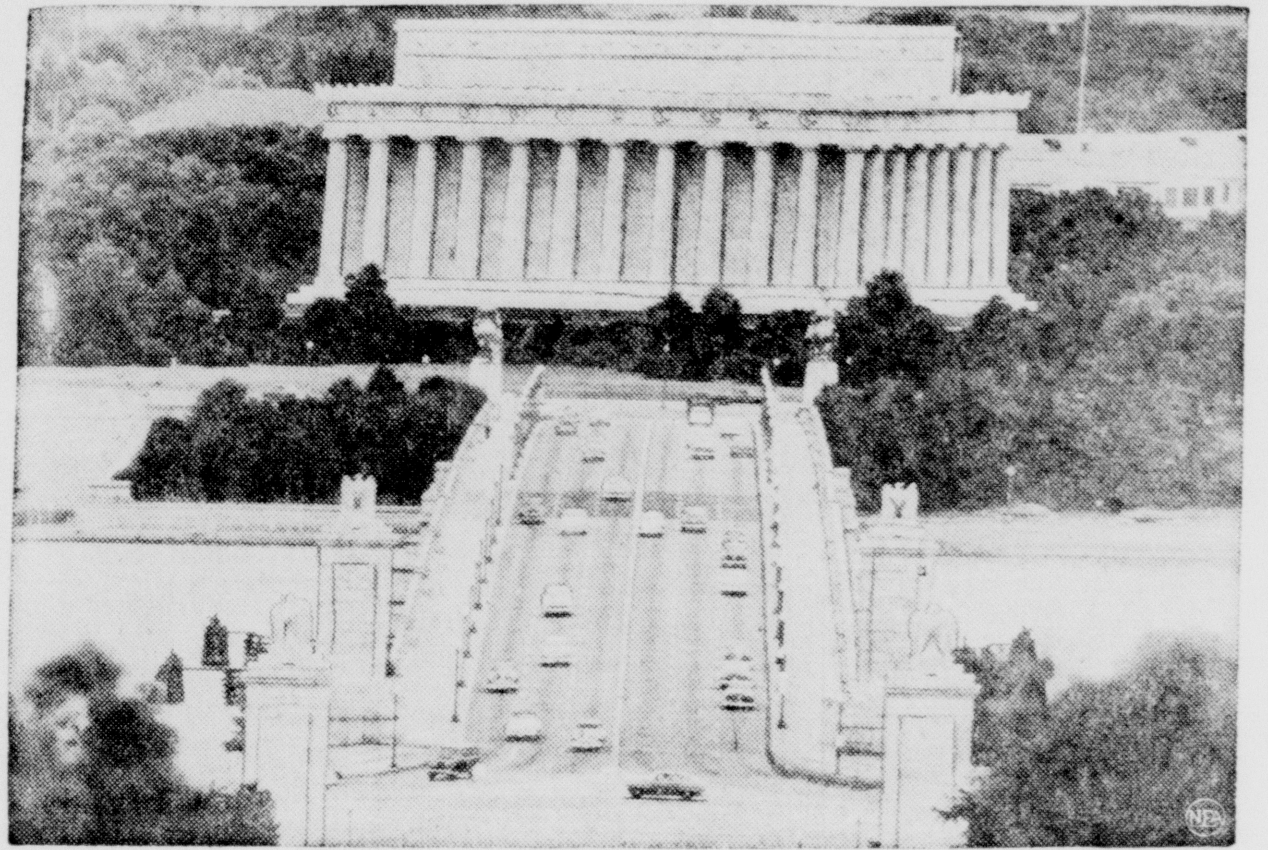

The Army Signal Corps' new camera that has a far-away look was recently tested in Washington, D. C., as shown below. Developed by engineers at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., the camera is equipped with a 100-inch infrared telephoto lens that can take pictures of objects 30 miles away. The camera was designed so it could photograph distant military targets. Its 9 1/2-inch-wide lens gives it the power of a 10-inch telescope. For civilian use it could prove the answer to constant surveillance of large wooded areas, of detect and help fight forest fires.

principles of foreign aid have a wide range of suggestions for changing the program.

Friends Committee on National Legislation and American Veterans Committee believe the current program is inadequate and should be expanded. Other groups, including the American Farm Bureau Federation, hold that economic aid should be replaced as rapidly as possible by the expansion of mutually profitable trade.

The Chamber of Commerce believes that, in view of the high domestic budget, economic aid should be extended "only in such cases and amounts as can be reasonably justified by reciprocal contributions."

NAM's policy statement includes this proviso: "Fundamental to any program involving uses of technical skill and capital of companies and people of the U. S. is the recognition by the (recipient) countries that the underlying principles of present-day private, competitive enterprise are not exploitative."

Still other organizations support foreign aid with other conditions. The American Merchant Marine Institute, for example, would provide for such assistance "with the condition that at least 50 per cent of the shipments be made in American ships."

Business Counts Gains And Dashed Hopes In Congressional Action

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen are counting up today some solid gains—along with some dashed hopes—dealt this year by a Congress widely considered to be "more business-minded" than its predecessors.

Legislation of prime interest to business lies in these fields: taxation, government economy, defense spending, public power, atomic energy, foreign trade, housing, and the St. Lawrence seaway.

High on the plus side from the point of view of business is the tax reform law, aimed at encouraging industrial expansion and production, and thus making jobs and swelling payrolls.

Failed To Cut Tax Rate
But Congress ignored industry's plea that the 52 per cent corporate income tax rate be allowed to drop to 47 per cent on schedule, and instead extended the higher rate until next April. This will take more tax money from business in the next few months than companies can save through other provisions in the tax reform measure.

These cover depreciation allowances, research spending, and the carry-back of losses for tax purposes. Nor did exemption of dividends from individual income taxes go as far as business had first hoped. But industry feels that the token exemptions should lead to wider purchasing of corporate stocks by the citizenry.

Excise Taxes Cut
Congress sliced some excise taxes and helped move goods involved—classified as luxuries or semi-luxuries—off store shelves, and helped consumers save on various services, recreation and entertainment charges. Manufacturers are hoping for still further cuts in the next session.

Economy moves in Congress are generally applauded. But some are disappointed that economy measures still leave the federal budget unbalanced and the federal debt due to rise—with all its implications of inflation.

Private power leaders count a number of victories. Congress laid aside several public power projects to give private firms or local authorities the go-ahead signal.

Businessmen eager to get into the infant atomic power field are counting on a partial victory—not as much right to develop nuclear fission plants through private enterprise as many want, but at least a beginning despite all the built-in restrictions.

Congress put a brake on public housing to the cheers of private builders. It also liberalized financing rules, and jubilant builders predict a continued home building boom, with all that means to the construction industry and financing institutions.

No Winner In This Friday 13th Duel

SYLVIA Kan. (AP)—It's hard to tell who won this Friday the 13th duel Friday. Neither of the principals fared well.

It began in the morning when Earl Miller noticed his farm pump wasn't working right. The pump motor, about 10 feet below the well platform, was smoking and no water was flowing into the stock tank.

Miller yanked the cover from the pump, then recoiled and ran to the house for his shotgun. A full-grown skunk had its tail entangled in the pump, burning out the motor.

Miller rushed into battle. He and the skunk fired simultaneously. The skunk died. Miller wished he were dead.

Groups Often At Odds Unite In Support Of Foreign Aid

(By Congressional Quarterly)

WASHINGTON (CQ)—Foreign economic aid has support from a powerful collection of organizations and the lobby debate over the program largely centers around its details, a Congressional Quarterly survey shows.

CQ's continuing check of major organizations has produced no groups which have declared they are actively working to defeat the administration-backed aid proposal, although some feel it should be greatly reduced "in the name of economy." Officials of the Committee for Constitutional Government and National Economic Council, for example, have favored reduction on such grounds.

Members of the pro-foreign-aid coalition say they expect the program to hit some bumps in Congress. They recommend it as a weapon against both Communism and a possible world slump. These groups (whose positions range from unofficial viewpoints to fighting support of the President's program) include:

"Big business" spokesmen, as well as top labor unions; farm groups which are currently at odds over the issue of price supports; international organizations favoring the United Nations, together with some which look at UN with a skeptical eye; and even leading opponents of reciprocal trade and freer-trade advocates.

Many hedge their foreign aid views with various conditions, and others support foreign aid for more or less special reasons. But a small core of lobbies is actively plugging for a program of foreign aid with few restrictions.

This lobby task force's activities shifted to the Senate wing of the Capitol when the House June 30 passed legislation authorizing foreign aid program. However, the coalition's leaders anticipate a struggle, perhaps in both House and Senate, when appropriations are sought. They expect attempts to write restrictions into the funds measure.

$388 Million For Economic Aid
The Administration seeks nearly $3.5 billion for foreign aid. Foreign Operations Administration officials broke this down into seven categories:

Mutual Defense Assistance	$1,580,000,000
Direct Forces
Support	$45,000,000
Mutual Defense

Support

Technical Cooperation

Development Assistance

Relief and Rehabilitation

Other Programs

FOA statisticians told CQ that the Technical Cooperation and Development Assistance requests, totaling $388 million, comprise the bulk of foreign economic aid.

Leading the drive for passage of economic aid is a handful of groups representing women, veterans and religious interests. Chief members are: Friends Committee on National Legislation, League of Women Voters, American Veterans Committee, General Federation of Women's Clubs, Cooperative League of the U. S., Americans for Democratic Action, and Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Other organizations which support the basic principle of foreign aid (in some instances, however, with qualifications), include:

Congress of Industrial Organizations, American Federation of Labor, Chamber of Commerce of the U. S., National Association of Manufacturers, National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, National Farmers Union, National Council of Churches and National Council of Jewish Women.

Some of these groups are priming for possible tussles over appropriations. Several now actively working for foreign economic aid.

through write-in campaigns and direct Congressional contact, are members of an informal conference known as Point Four Information Service. Organized four years ago to support the so-called Point Four plan, this committee provides a clearing-house through which, an official said, "those who see eye to eye on foreign aid have an opportunity for discussing and coordinating legislative strategy."

A few of these groups also belong to the Citizens Committee for the UN International Children's Emergency Fund.

Specific Viewpoints
Here are some of the arguments advanced in support of foreign economic aid:

"Economic aid and technical assistance (have) contributed immeasurably to building international understanding and cooperation between people." — Friends Committee on National Legislation.

"Foreign economic aid can be used in countries unable to build out of their own resources the strength needed for joint defense against Communism." — Chamber of Commerce of the U. S.

"Foreign economic assistance is preferable to tariff-cutting as a means of closing the dollar gap." — O. R. Strackbein, Nationwide Committee of Industry, Agriculture and Labor on Export-Import Policy.

"Foreign aid is a necessary weapon in the total war against poverty and injustice." — Congress of Industrial Organizations.
